

The Lecruccian Oracle

TRINITIES TRANCE DIVINATION

[The lecruccian oracle PDF is being produced by nyqeth qirata (قيراطووج) as a contribution for any serious practitioner of trance possession as an alternative divination technique. It is for when individuals are lacking traditional divination tools & could be rewritten then published by other publishers that want to make their own specified versions.]

ORIGINS

The ancient Greeks utilized trance possessions for “The Oracles of Delphi” to communicate with other worldly beings through spiritual infestation and/or the sub-consciousness mind; either could be utilized accordingly. Now, I must note that trances do not require drugs or other mind alteration substances; strengthening the sub-conscious mind or the possessive spirit is the requirement. Some individuals have already been worked to have strong subconscious muscle reflexes & others have already been under extremities that awoke the subconscious mind’s reflexes. Anyone that lacks access to trance through the subconscious mind must seek to be worked by certain certified hypnotherapists to achieve successful trance inductions & self induced hypno sequences organized/written by masters. The lecruccian oracle will be & is utilized for the same purposes as those oracles of delphi from ancient Greece, but with alternative tools & other methods of writing. Lecruccian trance possession writings will utilize the number 3 as a representation of the trinities in balance that form the aethereal hexagram & timelines like past, present & future. The trinities are made of two trinities; the holy trinity & the trinity of darkness which are both created by the aethereal creator then make both of its aspects.

The hexagram above this “origins” section is originally known as The Star of David in Judaism. Although in zherraxian philosophy with alchemical symbolism, hermetic & animistic teachings; the hexagram describes the aetheric realm & its blaze. It represents the aethereal universal ocean of consciousness, where the lecruccian subconscious mind taps into its source of conscious divination; balance (of fire’s light with deep water’s darkness) is also an interpretation of this symbol.

THE PRACTICE

First of all, practitioners must perform personal (self inducing) rituals to summon the sub-conscious mind or the spirit within to take complete control of the practitioner’s physical movements & optical vision through trance possession. Each practitioner may have a different way of inducing self trances & each personal ritual (to induce trance) is designed differently according to practitioner; each individual has a unique touch in style to ritual work. One way to know when your subconscious mind is strong enough to induce self trances, is when you willingly could fluctuate your mind’s internal mental reflexes like a rubber ball reforming shape. You will feel your mind’s internal muscles naturally compress certain parts of the mind at will while other parts expand & being able to switch or fluctuate between those parts of the mind like exercising the consciousness. Aligning our selves to universal & world order along with statuses & privileges are key to successful divinations, accordingly to stature & privilege.

Secondly, practitioners must ask a question or series of questions (in sequence) that either the sub-conscious mind or the spirit within could answer accordingly. Since the sub-conscious mind is connected to its creator lord & his/her/zhirs universal ocean of consciousness. The lecruccian sub-conscious mind could answer questions that any spirit within will not be able to answer. Carrying a journal or note book to write down your questions will be necessary to keep track of your divination sessions. Dates, titles, numbered questions (with answers), annotations & sigils will all be useful techniques for organizing all sessions. Organized journaling will make it easier to recap on dates for analysis of divination patterns. Similar to the i-ching, each question will be asked & answered accordingly, one at a time & one by one.

After the question or questions are asked, the lecruccian sub-conscious mind or the spirit within could respond (through trance possession) by writing 3 vertical lines from left to right as an answer or answers for the question or questions. The trance writing marks are written from left to right like writing a western world book. Although if practitioners are in another country where language is written from right to left, then the symbols could be reversed from right to left or simply be kept as left for left-hand path & right for right-hand path. Each response has its own overall meaning & connected result; and each result & its meaning could be changed according to practitioners & situations; this is when notes are most useful especially with ciphered text or script.

This form of lecruccian oracle divination doesn’t use yes or no questions with yes or no answers. The questions asked to the lecruccian oracle must be of overall actions with the results like a map in a fluctuating graph; such as those stocks investment graphs or crypto candle graphs with fluctuating prices. The questions & answers must be referring to either: success or failure, difficult or easy, work hard or work easy, escalate or deescalate, gain or loss, struggle or ease (etc); there are also the balanced responses that could be answered with the aethereal trigram like the one in the chart below. Under this paragraph in the chart below, I displayed the trance possession connected responses in the middle row with their raw unconnected versions in the bottom row & the symbols of the overall meanings above in the top row.

THE CHART

THE SYMBOLS of THE OVERALL MEANINGS
TRANCE POSSESSION CONNECTED RESPONSES
RAW TRANCE POSSESSION UNCONNECTED RESPONSES

Each response is connected by the practitioner with a horizontal-like line to describe its fluctuation, ascent or decent & to finalize a response. You could see the examples in the middle row of the columns. The markings in the bottom row of the columns without the horizontal-like lines are a description of the result of the possessive lecrucian sub-conscious mind or spirit within responding with writings. The actual writings will not look like these digital representations, because practitioners will use either: pens, pencils, markers, chalk or any other form of writing tools. If practitioners are also lacking writing tools for this type of divination method, then practitioners could improvise by using a finger or sticks with sand, dirt, soil, flour, saw dust or any other form of powdery substance to write the trigrams. Similar to those voodoo (voodoo) practices of writing sigils in powders. Be creative & improvise when needed. Since the subconscious mind or the spirit within will use quick to semi-quick reflexes & movements to respond, the writings will naturally resemble markings or scratchings. The digital versions of the markings in this PDF contribution are only artistic representations to accompany this file & are not meant to look exactly like official trance writings.

TRANSLATIONS

The translations to each trigram response could be translated & altered differently according to each practitioner. Such as the fire trigram or the earth trigram (etc) where there is a rise. A rising graph line or path could be translated by some individuals as difficult hard work or struggle, because they put in effort to achieve it. While others translate a rising path like successful or gaining profits & that could be translated as easy like winning profits in stocks investments or crypto trading.

Just like rises are translated differently according to individuals, downfalls are also translated differently according to each individual (etc). It is the reason that this lecrucian oracle PDF instruction book is designed to give an idea of how the oracle works with non-strict guidelines for practitioners to be able to adjust the meanings to each symbol & their trigram responses according to each individual & situation. Practitioners could also adjust the meanings for each response & symbol then switch up the meanings for each session with ciphered notes or journaling to encrypt the answers from prying eyes; this way no thieves get their hands on any practitioner's personal divination journal easily to spy on recorded sessions.

THE MARKINGS OF THE RESPONSES
THEIR MEANINGS

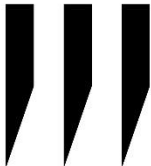

THE ÆTHEREAL TRIGRAM

The first response is the aethereal trigram. It is a representation of the aether it self that “predates the other elements” & “manifested it all”. The symbol of this trigram is a straight line from left to right & start to finish, that signifies a continuous path (the straight path) & could also represent the starting line in a race of races (species) on any quest or journey (etc). In each trigram section I will explain the examples of the responses to questions according to each trigram, starting with this aethereal trigram.

Example:

Q) Your question could be about what is most likely to happen in the next or present situation of your life according to the (hidden) intentions & actions of the people or person involved.

A) The aethereal trigram means the straight path & that could imply answers like “smooth sailing without turbulence, continuation, everything remains the same from start to finish, opportunity for achievement & success, effortless, open path without obstacles to reach destinations” (etc); these are just some examples of the meanings that a practitioner could use according to each individual, question & situation.

THE WATER TRIGRAM

The second response is the water trigram like the aether in its entirety. The symbol of this trigram is an inverted triangle with the representation of the overall meaning to describe a decent straight downward without fluctuation. The example of the responses to questions that could relate according to this water trigram is below this short paragraph.

Example:

Q) Your question could be about what is most likely to happen in the next or present situation of your life according to the (hidden) intentions & actions of the people or person involved.

A) The water trigram means downfall & that could imply negative answers like straight “failure, difficult, hard work, de-escalation, loss, struggle & hard times” (etc); these are just some examples of the meanings that a practitioner could use according to each individual, question & situation.

THE FIRE TRIGRAM

The third response is the fire trigram like the vibrancy of the aether. The symbol of this trigram is an upward triangle with the representation of the overall meaning to describe an ascent straight upward without fluctuation. The example of the responses to questions that could relate according to this trigram is below this short paragraph.

Example:

Q) Your question could be about what is most likely to happen in the next or present situation of your life according to the (hidden) intentions & actions of the people or person involved.

A) The fire trigram means rise & that could imply positive answers like “success without failure, easy without difficulty, easy work without hard work, escalation without de-escalation, gain without loss, ease without struggle” (etc); these are just some examples of the meanings that a practitioner could use according to each individual, question & situation.

THE EARTH TRIGRAM

The fourth response is the earth trigram like the atomic matter that the aether's fluidity creates when condensing itself into manifestation. The symbol of this trigram is an inverted triangle with a "V" like arrow pointing upward that has a representation of the overall meaning to describe an initial rise with an ultimate downfall. The "V" like arrow pointing upward represents a temporary rise, because it isn't whole as the entire triangle. The inverted triangle is more whole therefore it represents an ultimate downfall in the end. Hence the graph showing a rise from the first stroke to the second stroke with a descent to the last stroke at the end of the trance response. The inverted triangle is like aetheral water & the "V" like arrow pointing up is like the earth's mountains that it creates. The example of the responses to questions that could relate according to this trigram is below this short paragraph.

Example:

Q) Your question could be about what is most likely to happen in the next or present situation of your life according to the (hidden) intentions & actions of the people or person involved.

A) The earth trigram means negative fluctuation, because it starts with a temporary rise then ends with a final downfall & that could imply answers like "success with failure in the end, escalation with de-escalation in the end, gain with loss in the end, ease with struggles in the end" (etc); these are just some examples of the meanings that a practitioner could use according to each individual, question & situation.

THE AIR TRIGRAM

The fifth response is the air trigram like the aether in the form of a vaporous atmosphere evaporated by its fiery blaze. The symbol of this trigram is an upright triangle with a “V” like arrow pointing downward that has a representation of the overall meaning to describe an initial downfall with an ultimate rise. The “V” like arrow pointing downward represents a temporary downfall, because it isn’t whole as the entire upright triangle. The upright triangle is more whole therefore it represents an ultimate rise in the end. Hence the graph showing a downfall from the first stroke to the second stroke with an ascent to the last stroke at the end of the trance response. The upright triangle is like the aethereal realm’s blaze & the “V” like arrow pointing down is like the vapor of fluid evaporating then dissipating into the atmosphere in two directions with the blazing stars above. The example of the responses to questions that could relate according to this trigram is below this short paragraph.

Example:

Q) Your question could be about what is most likely to happen in the next or present situation of your life according to the (hidden) intentions & actions of the people or person involved.

A) The air trigram means positive fluctuation, because it starts with a temporary downfall (where we obtain wisdom) then ends with a final rise & that could imply answers like “failure to start with then ends with success, difficult to start with then ends with easy, de-escalation to start with then ends with escalation, loss to start with then ends with gain, struggle to start with then ends with ease” (etc); these are just some examples of the meanings that a practitioner could use according to each individual, question & situation.

THE NECROKIS TRIGRAM

The sixth response is the necrokis (necro-kis) trigram which translates to death energies or dead energies, as in more than one necro-ki (multiple death energies); the name also relates to “the state of being undead through zombified necrosis” & “the kiss of death whom we all know as the reaper”. It is a representation of a path that leads to or ends with a downfall. The symbol of this trigram is a straight line to start with & a triangle pointing downward at the end, signifying a final descent. It also represents the left hand path of death with water underneath soils creating mycelium in moisture & humidity. The example of the responses to questions that could relate according to this trigram is below this short paragraph.

Example:

Q) Your question could be about what is most likely to happen in the next or present situation of your life according to the (hidden) intentions & actions of the people or person involved.

A) The necrokis trigram could imply answers like continuation with “failure, difficulty, hard work, hardship, de-escalation, loss or struggle” in the end (etc); these are just some examples of the meanings that a practitioner could use according to each individual, question & situation.

THE HILLS TRIGRAM

The seventh response is the hills trigram. It is a representation of a path that leads to or ends with a rise. The symbol of this trigram is a straight line to start with & a triangle pointing upward at the end, signifying a final ascent. It represents a continuous path that leads up the hills; among the dragon & phoenix, kings & queens of the hills. The example of the responses to questions that could relate according to this trigram is below this short paragraph.

Example:

Q) Your question could be about what is most likely to happen in the next or present situation of your life according to the (hidden) intentions & actions of the people or person involved.

A) The hills trigram could imply answers like continuation with “success, easy, easy work, escalation, gain, ease or profit” in the end (etc); these are just some examples of the meanings that a practitioner could use according to each individual, question & situation.

THE WOOD TRIGRAM

The eighth response is the wood trigram. It is a representation of a downfall that leads to or ends with a path; to continue a quest or journey (etc). The symbol of this trigram is a triangle pointed downward to start with & a straight line at the end. It represents the right hand path of life giving waters like watering the wood roots underneath the soils. The example of the responses to questions that could relate according to this trigram is below this short paragraph.

Example:

Q) Your question could be about what is most likely to happen in the next or present situation of your life according to the (hidden) intentions & actions of the people or person involved.

A) The wood trigram is a downhill response like a downfall with a path of continuation afterwards which grants us the opportunity to continue our journey or starting a new path & that could imply answers like “failure, difficulty, de-escalation, loss, struggle” with a path afterward for continuation or to continue toward something new (etc); these are just some examples of the meanings that a practitioner could use according to each individual, question & situation.

THE STORM TRIGRAM

The ninth response is the storm trigram. It is a representation of a rise that leads to or ends with a path; to continue a quest or journey (etc). The symbol of this trigram is a triangle pointed upward to start with & a straight line at the end. It represents the storm above the hills & mountains after reaching their heights & overseeing a path to continue or new paths to build. The example of the responses to questions that could relate according to this trigram is below this short paragraph.

Example:

Q) Your question could be about what is most likely to happen in the next or present situation of your life according to the (hidden) intentions & actions of the people or person involved.

A) The storm trigram is an uphill response like a rise with a path of continuation afterwards which grants us the opportunity to continue our journey or starting a new path & that could imply answers like “success, easy, easy work, escalation, gain or ease” with a path afterward for continuation or to continue toward something new (etc); these are just some examples of the meanings that a practitioner could use according to each individual, question & situation.
